We set standards together with our customers...

With the procedures that we develop in-house, we set standards in connection with user-friendliness, modularity and investment security. Our products support our users reliably in the functionally complex processing of procedures.

Here, the close and lasting working relationship with users in administration departments of different sizes is the basis for the development of our software. That way we can do justice to the functional and technical requirements found in practice. With our experience and competence, we assist our customers as a reliable partner even while we work on solutions for tomorrow today. Hence, we can not only optimally cover the requirements of everyday work nationwide, but we also provide trendsetting work in state and national projects in further development and optimisation of technical processes.

“ We create solutions

Our customers have confidence in the quality of our products as well as the competence of our employees. Together with our partners, we offer solutions for municipal users in the entire country in the areas of permits, commercial trade, parental benefit and childcare subsidies.

Success is our recipe

Our many years of experience are enhanced by working together like partners with other companies, institutions or public authorities always with the goal of finding the best-possible solution.

Colleagues train colleagues

Thorough education and training is the best prerequisite for successful work. Therefore, check your training requirements regularly. Our employees would be happy to advise you in order to create optimum conditions for using the software in the office.

When there is a change of staff or changes to areas of responsibility, please check whether there is once again a need for training. For that purpose, we regularly offer in-depth, update and advanced seminars.

Only regular further education and training ensures successful use of our software products in the long-term and puts you in a position to complete your daily workload efficiently with our software products. Also, keep in mind that our employees can only successfully support you on the hotline if you have the necessary basic knowledge.

Besides our regular training at various locations, it goes without saying that you also have the possibility to book individual training or workshops at your site.

Support

We offer extensive support in the use of our software in everyday business as part of our software maintenance via telephone, e-mail and remote maintenance. In addition, we will take over the complete execution of all updates of our products at the request of our customers with our update service.
